

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

CLEVELAND MUSEUM OF ART

THIRD ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF WORK BY CLEVELAND ARTISTS AND CRAFTSMEN

The Third Annual Exhibition of Work by Cleveland Artists and Craftsmen opens on the evening of May second with a private view and reception to exhibitors, members of the Museum and their families. The Museum is indebted again to the committee of the Cleveland Art Association under the chairmanship of Mrs. S. Livingston Mather and to the President of the Association, Mrs. Harry L. Vail for their co-operation in searching for new workers and in urging artists to submit their work to the jury. It is an encouraging fact that there were over nine hundred and fifty entries filed, a considerably larger number than ever before.

The excellence of the two previous exhibitions has set a standard that is difficult of approach. It is felt, however, that this year's exhibition bodes well to be the most successful of all those held so far. As last year all the work was produced or finished during the current year. This rule it is expected will cover entries for subsequent years as well. There will be another exhibition in 1922 towards which all should be working.

The Museum believes that by an exhibition of this character it can best serve the cause of art in Cleveland. Because of this an especial emphasis is laid upon the necessity of Clevelanders supporting the artists of the city. A very much larger number of pieces was sold last year during the course of the exhibition than in the previous year, through the able efforts of Mrs. Paul Smith. Mrs. Smith is again in charge of sales and it is hoped that an increased number of objects will find a place in Cleveland homes.

The exhibition opens to the public on May third and closes June fifth. These dates are especially emphasized because the exhibition will continue for five weeks only instead of the two months period as in 1919 and 1920. The shorter period is necessitated by the fact that the Exhibition of Contemporary American Painting will open on June tenth. In this exhibition thirty paintings by Cleveland artists will be hung with sixty chosen from the works of well known American artists.

W. M. M.